Planning Your Supports

- You have the right to be involved in the planning of your supports and services.
- You can involve friends or family close to you. You can also involve an advocate or support person.
- You can tell us how you want your services delivered. We will try to involve you in choosing your worker.
- We can also involve other providers with your consent. They can help us to make the best support plan.
- We will look at your risks. We will try keep you and others safe by reducing these risks.
- We will talk about your support plan and risks with you every year. We may do it sooner if your needs or situation changes.

You can tell us about your strengths, needs and goals. We will make a support plan with you and the other people you want involved.
